How we will use information about you

- Carry out background and reference checks, where applicable.
- Communicate with you about the recruitment process.
- Keep records related to our hiring processes.
- Comply with legal or regulatory requirements.

It is in our legitimate interests to decide whether to appoint you to the role since it would be beneficial to our business to appoint someone to that role.

We also need to process your personal information to decide whether to enter into a contract of employment with you.

Having received your CV and covering letter and/or your application form and the results from our applicant tests, we will then process that information to decide whether you meet the basic requirements to be shortlisted for the role. If you do, we will decide whether your application is strong enough to invite you for an interview. If we decide to call you for an interview, we will use the information you provide to us at the interview to decide whether to offer you the role. If we decide to offer you the role, we will then take up references and request information about relevant criminal convictions before confirming your appointment.

If you fail to provide personal information

If you fail to provide information when requested, which is necessary for us to consider your application (such as evidence of qualifications or work history), we will not be able to process your application successfully. ## Information about criminal convictions

We envisage that we will process information about criminal convictions.

We will collect information about your criminal convictions history during the application process. We are entitled to do so in order to satisfy ourselves that there is nothing in your criminal convictions history which makes you unsuitable for the role. In particular:

- Employees of Verastar Ltd are required to act with a high degree of trust and integrity and so we would like to ask you some brief questions about your criminal records history.

We have in place an appropriate policy document and safeguards which we are required by law to maintain when processing such data.

Data retention

How long will you use my information for?

We will retain your personal information for a period of 6 months after we have communicated to you our decision about whether to appoint you to the role. We retain your personal information for that period so that we can show, in the event of a legal claim, that we have not discriminated against candidates on prohibited grounds and that we have conducted the recruitment exercise in a fair and transparent way. It also means that if you are initially unsuccessful we can reconsider your application if the same role becomes available again within this period. After this period, we will securely destroy your personal information in accordance with our data retention policy.

If we wish to retain your personal information on file, on the basis that a different opportunity may arise in future and we may wish to consider you for that, we will seek your explicit consent to retain your personal information for a fixed period on that basis.

Processing your personal data allows us to manage the recruitment process, assess and confirm your suitability for employment and decide to whom we offer a job. If you wish to object to this processing, please contact our data protection officer. Once we have received notification that you have objected to the processing we will no longer process your application and, subject to our retention policy, we will dispose of your personal data securely.

When we process information about criminal convictions, we do so to carry out our obligations in connection with employment or for reasons of substantial public interest and in line with our collection of criminal conviction information policy.

Data protection officer

If you have any questions about this privacy notice or how we handle your personal information, please contact the DPO at dataprotection@verastar.co.uk. You have the right to make a complaint at any time to the Information Commissioner's Office (ICO), the UK supervisory authority for data protection issues.
